“ My memories of your Mom go back as far as my memories go. I just can't remember when I first saw her. The memory that means the most is the encouragement she gave me when I admitted to the church that I had never been saved and needed to be. I was saved 4 nights later, she was there and had been every night. We will rejoice again in Heaven someday! I also remember her near death experience that she shared with me a few years ago. I remember that group of friends my parents had, all worth their weight in gold. I believe it was your mom and dad, Alvia and Irene, Johnny and Fay, Jerald and Mertie and maybe another couple besides my parents. They had so much fun. I wasn't there with them all that much, but sure enjoyed their discussions and jokes when I was. I am sure that you two will have many, many precious memories, as I have. Weren't we the lucky ones to have been blessed with such parents?

“ Known to me as my sister-in-law's mom, BB is forever cast in my memory as one who was well grounded, with practical wisdom and no fear of hard work, whatever the task. She had a distinctive laugh and was one of good humor. As a young person, I loved visiting the farm she and her husband had in Halfway. Her love for her two daughters, grandchildren and great-grandchildren was stellar. May she rest in peace. Janice Engsberg “ *Death is the enemy of all. Fortunately, 1 Corinthians 15:26 promises that death is to be brought to nothing. May you find comfort from the scriptures and strengthen the bonds of those you love.
