“ Pops

A very influential figure in our lives, referee, friend, advisor, head cracker, back slapper, time and love giving man.....so many words could be used to describe the man that has filled our daily lives for the past 8 years....You are very dearly missed in our house, and it will take alot of time to fill the void(and silence) that is in our lives... Love brought us together, and now love, and the memory of the love you shared with us, will be the tie that holds us together while we grieve, and try to make a new life.

Thank You pops for accepting me as your daughter, and giving me the wonderful man that was your son, and is now my husband.... And I promise to keep the roses in better shape for you to come see.....
