“ He's my grandfather. I remember when I used to bake sweets for him, and the one time I put the bowl of cake into the sink and added dish soap into it... he ate it. He ate dish soap thinking it was batter. Not to mention the time he ate dog food, thinking it was human food. Papa was one of my favourite people, and still is. My last phone call with him was December 6 when he wished me a happy birthday and talk about taking me out to eat for it. When I heard he was in the hospital, we rushed as quickly as possible to see him. I told him I love him, I told him to rest, I told him we'd go let his pets out and be fed. I'll miss him forever
