Giselle Hague Belmor, was born May 4, 1924 in Hanau, Germany to Wilhelm and Walli Vollenschier. As a child, Giselle enjoyed school so much she later became a teacher and often spoke fondly of her memories of her one room school house. Shortly after the war, the family emigrated to the United States and started a successful tile business. In the 70s, the Belmors started Belmor Rosin, something Giselle enjoyed immensely and continued to operate well into her eighties. On July 17, 2011, God called Giselle home and she was joyously reunited with her beloved husband Victor, son Fred Hague, son-in-law Albert Floyd, daughter-in-law Margie Haag, her parents and other loved ones who welcomed her home.
