“ I loved Andrea McPheeters message. Hobart was all of that. All the McPheeters were great family friends of my Mother, Marcena Cartmill, at Polk and in Bolivar. Gramma McPheeters was really a Grandma to me. We were not only close with Hobart, but also with Willard and Thelma.

I am now 75, and Hobart taught me at age 7 to gut and clean a fish. We kids used to play with all the Civil war stuff in the McPheeters attic. Hobart was always impeccably dressed; I will always remember his beautiful white suits. Always the intelligent gentleman with an amazing sense of humor and zest for life. This he shared with his lovely Ann and I have enjoyed any contact I have been able to have with them over the years. We will miss you Hobart, you were one of a kind. They don't make them like you anymore.

“ He was the gift of running wild and free at the farm. He was fishing and pistachios, a corny joke, that crackling sound on an old record, and always a little sweet treat for us every time we saw him. He was thoughtful. He was souvenirs for each of us every place he traveled; he was a birthday card rain or shine - halfway across the world or 30+ years old. There he was, my grandpa - carrying our hearts with him always. He could make you feel like 'you are whatever a moon has always meant, and whatever a sun will always sing, is you'. I am so thankful for everything he taught me, but most of all, for showing me the impact that a kind and joyful heart can have upon another. Wish I could have been there today to celebrate his life with you all. Love you
