The two of them moved to Humansville shortly after and started their family. He had many jobs such as a sheet rocker, truck driver, a feed delivery driver for C & M feed store, and a fitter at Doing steel. He would often joke about being a jack of all trades with no "certifications". But the one thing he was most proud of was being a farmer west of town. James was a loving husband, father, grandpa, uncle and brother. Who always had a joke to tell along with advice for whoever needed it. He will truly be missed.

James is preceded in death by his mother, Sharon Alvarado, and nephew Dakota Vest. Also Grandparents Charles and Helen Harper. And several aunts and uncles.

Services will be announced at a later time.
