“ Mrs. Price will always remain high on my list of most influential teachers. We had a rough 5th grade year, with the high school burning and the elementary having to share our building with the high school. But Mrs. Price made it an outstanding year! I was always a behavior "problem" in elementary, but Mrs. Price never had any problems with me because she knew how to bring out the best in her students. Today I am an educator myself and bring up Mrs. Price regularly. Just last night, at a New Years Eve party, I shared with a large group how much I loved and appreciate Mrs. Price. Blessings to you, her family, as you grieve her passing. I will say prayers on your behalf. Know that your wife and mother changed my life forever.

“ My deepest condolences go out to the family of Mrs. Price, especially Ray whom I graduated with (class of 83). Lou was an example in my life of a strong and independent woman, I appreciate her influence. She was an incredible woman.

“ Mrs. Price was a good teacher and a good friend to our family. After I graduated in 1983 I would see her on occasion and she never failed to stop and visit and ask how our family was doing. Her Son, Ray was a friend of mine in school and our thoughts and prayers are with him and the rest of Mrs. Price's family at this time. I'm thankful that I had the chance to be her student. -David Cox

“ I am sad to hear of the untimely death of Lou. My heart goes out to the entire family, but Rex in particular. This can't be easy. I only hope that her memory will live on in each of you. Mother's are like that. They leave their spirit in their family that lives on forever. As you gather to mourn her passing, remember too the special times, and pass it on. Rex, my condolences are yours.

“ What can I say? I don't remember Louvena and her family not being a part of mine all my life...her sons were like my own brothers and tortured me as so...lol. I still feel like a little girl when I remember being across the street playing with their dog and eating whatever great snack Louvena had for me...it's a memory that is locked in my mind forever.
