

Pollyanna J. Youngblood

March 30, 1922 - January 10, 2008

Pollyanna Jane Youngblood, 85, passed away Thursday, January 10, 2007 at Specialty Hospital of Mid-America in Overland Park, Kansas. Born March 30, 1922 to Dick and Vearl Coble at Flemington, Missouri, she was a loving and much loved wife, mother, grandmother and great-grandmother. She is survived by Ken Youngblood, her devoted husband of 65 years; one son and daughter-in-law, K. B. and Anita Youngblood; two granddaughters and their husbands, Angela and Rodger McClary and Alisa and Tim Hopper; five great-grandchildren, Blake, Katlin and Joshua McClary and Manda and Austin Hopper; two nephews, Rick, Patty and Tara Coble and Randy Coble. Her parents and brother, Richard Coble, preceded her in death. Polly was employed in Humansville for many years as a nurse working for Dr. G. G. Robinson and later in Kansas City, Missouri for Dr. Glenn Barr in his practice, Surgical Services. Polly was devoted to her family and enjoyed sewing for her granddaughters and making costumes that were passed down through the great-grandchildren. She expressed her creativity and love for others by painting canvasses, both large and small. Polly and Ken were members for many years at Humansville United Methodist Church later moving their membership to Lee s Summit United Methodist Church. Funeral services will be Sunday, January 13, 2007 at 1:30 PM at Murray Funeral Home, Humansville with Rev. Kerry Skidmore officiating. Interment will be in the Humansville Cemetery.

“ As I child I would beg for Polly to be the one who would give me my shot. I also remember what wonderful care she gave my grandparents when they were in her nursing home. The thing I remember the most was her smile. Marilyn (Jack and Freda Simmons daughter)
