“ Tony and I had many adventures when were younger. Most of them involved hunting and fishing as both of us loved to do both. One story that always seemed to come up for years when we were visiting involved a pheasant hunting trip. Since Tony and I were the youngest and the cab of the truck was full we had to ride in the bed which at least had a topper on it. About 2 hours into the ride I got hungry and it just so happened that we had a large container of fried chicken in the back. I took the lid off of the container and ate a couple of pieces (it might have been Tony that had a couple pieces and I had 6-8 it's been a long time ago). About an hour later the truck pulled off the highway onto a dirt road and came to a stop. We let the bird dog out to stretch his legs and do his thing (oh yeah we had a bird dog in the bed of the truck too). Then someone said get the chicken out and we'll eat a bite. The look on everyone's face when they opened the container and there was only half of the chicken left was priceless. All of the bones were there though since that was the only place to put them after we ate since we didn't want the bird dog to eat them. It's been a lot of years since I visited with Tony, but all the memories of our adventures are still as vivid in my mind as they were the day they happened. My thoughts and prays are with the family as I'm sure they miss him terribly.
